Lay Retreatants Enthusiastic

Reports From El Retiro and Mount St. Michael's Show Progress

Triumph Forseen

At the Eucharistic Congress held at Montreal in 1910, Father Terence Shealy, in a paper in which he told the story of men's retreats in Europe, outlined what the Retreat idea would mean to the United States.

To Father Shealy's mind, it was evident that what could be done in Europe could be done in our own country. He declared: "France, Ireland, Belgium, Germany, England and other European states have welcomed the movement. It has at length extended its mighty arms to America. It is taking root in a kindly soil. The generous response given everywhere makes me feel that the Retreat movement is destined to grow in America. I am therefore not too sanguine in looking forward to the near future when retreat houses will be founded unto the greater glory of God, and unto the strength and vitality of Church and state in every large city of the country."

Our knowledge of the marvelous growth and firm solidity of the Laymen's retreat movement evinced during the past few years, gives us some idea of the triumphant fulfillment of that prophecy.

Early Received in West

The movement, so well begun in the East by Father Shealy, was early taken up in the West. Santa Clara, many years ago, was among the first to devote itself to this work. Gonzaga, too, full thirteen years ago welcomed its first band of retreatants. Fourteen there were, an humble enough beginning—but one which each year has had its substantial increase until, last summer, 170 men made the retreats at Mount St. Michael's.

El Retiro Established

A House of Retreats is, however, desirable for the service of each large community.

Thus far El Retiro San Inigo at Los Altos is our model House of Retreats. Serving as it does the convenience of the metropolitan area of San Francisco as well as the thriving little towns "down the Peninsula" and the Santa Clara valley, it is admirably situated for its purpose. Week after week retreats are carried on with the most encouraging regularity and profit for the men.

Men Show Practical Zeal

The system of recruiting retreatants for El Retiro is one that gives evidence of the enthusiasm and zeal with which the men are inspired. One or two men will take it upon themselves to bring the retreatants for a certain week. The names of these men (called captains) are printed in the Retreat Association's bulletin to enable those to sign up with whom the captain would not otherwise come in contact. The greater number are, of course, personally recruited.

Some actual facts and numbers concerning this Retreat House will, no doubt, be of general interest. Fortunately, we have the report of the president of the Retreat Association, Mr. Paul B. Fay, presented at a recent meeting at the Palace Hotel, San Francisco:

Report Gives Figures

"El Retiro San Inigo is entering on its fifth year and up to the present time 1957 men have made retreats there.

"The total number of retreats given during that time is 170; while the average attendance on a weekly retreat at El Retiro since the first of the year has been 20 men. The general average of the attendance at the retreats for the four years has been 14  $\frac{3}{4}$ .

"In January of this year four retreats were given with a total of 71 men, of whom 48 were new retreatants and 23 had made retreats before.

"In February three retreats were held. They were attended by 54 men of whom 38 were new retreatants and 16 were former retreatants.

"In March three retreats were again held with a total of 75 retreatants for the month, of whom 32 were new retreatants and 43 who had attended previously.

"We have, therefore, a total since the first of the year of ten retreats, 118 new retreatants and 82 former retreatants, bringing the total attendance for the three months up to 200.

"To date there have been 1957 retreatants of whom 611 were repeaters, leaving a membership of 1346 in the Association."

This, then, is the numerical story of El Retiro San Inigo.

At Mount St. Michael's

Retreats for men have been held in Spokane, as has been said, for the past thirteen years. They were begun at Gonzaga University and were held during the summer vacation. They were a success from the first, owing no doubt to the zeal and quiet determination of those who had the project at heart and who saw the bright prospects of much benefit to souls.

Some years ago, however, it was urged that the yearly retreats be held at Mount St. Michael's where the retreatants could be nicely taken care of during the vacation absence of the scholastics. And so it is that, not yet possessing a Retreat House, the men of Spokane come each year to the Mount for their three days.

Two Retreats Necessitated

In 1927 it became evident that even the ample accommodations of Mount St. Michael's could not accommodate at one time all those who desired to make the retreat. Two dates were therefore set and since that time each year has seen two retreats.

Scholastics Give Time

What has, in addition, contributed to the success of these retreats is the willing and generous help given by the scholastics during the time of the men's stay. More than can possibly be used volunteer to make the sacrifice of three days of their time, serving during that period the convenience of the retreatants.

The men appreciate this sacrifice, and it is the hospitality shown them that makes their stay with us a double pleasure and makes them feel that they would like to return.

Having no House, it is of course impossible to reach the great numbers that would otherwise be ours. That will, it is hoped come soon. But in the meantime, the size of the retreats is quite satisfactory. Last year 170 men attended.

And in Other Places

Other places in the Province are also active in the Laymen's retreat movement. Manresa Hall hopes soon to help with retreats during the two months before the arrival of each new class.

The Kingdom of Christ

"We have, indeed, a great field open to retreat work in America, and surely this country, if any other, needs to pause and look within and think in the heart. America will be the great battlefield of the future, the Catholic layman must do the fighting, and we cannot arm him too early or too well to insure the victory of the Kingdom of Christ."

Priests to Be

Many To Be Ordained

There are at least 18 members of the California Province to be ordained to the priesthood during the coming summer.

In June:

At St. Louis—Mr. Lloyd R. Burns, Mr. Thomas McKey.

Weston, Mass.—Mr. Edward Maginnis.

Woodstock, Md.—Mr. David M. Daze, Mr. James H. Donohue, Mr. Gerald D. Flynn, Mr. Alexis I. Mei.

Heythrop, England—Mr. Joseph I. Gatz, Mr. Francis J. Kane.

In July:

At Sarria, Spain—Mr. Cyril R. Kavanaugh, Mr. Gerald Leahy, Mr. Charles J. Walsh.

Ona, Spain—Mr. John A. Mifsud.

In August:

At Enghein, Belgium—Mr. Leo A. Madigan, Mr. Paul O'Connor.

Louvain, Belgium—Mr. Paul Deschout, Mr. Joseph O'Brien, Mr. H. F. Peronseau.

Yakima: Marquette

Twelve to Graduate

The commencement exercises for Marquette high school will be held on the evening of June 2. There will be 12 graduates this year, an increase of four over last year's graduating class. Four of the twelve are expected to begin their studies preparatory to the priesthood.

Father Henry Vrebosch, former principal of Marquette, and now principal of the Gonzaga high school department, will deliver the address to the graduates. Rev. Father Brusten will present the diplomas and awards. Prominent among the awards are the Bishop Armstrong medal for general class excellence, the Knights of Columbus medal for the best historical essay, and the prize of ten dollars in gold offered by the Lions Club for excellence in English.

"The Real Stuff"

A comedy-drama entitled "The Real Stuff," was presented by the Dramatic club of Marquette in the school auditorium, Friday evening, May 10. A matinee for the school children was held in the afternoon of the same day. At both performances the hall was crowded until only standing room remained.

The play is a full three-act production, supported by a cast of 20 characters. Rich blendings of humorous situations with tense, uncertain moments furnished the action that sustained the interest of the audience to the very end, and elicited many expressions of praise for the talent manifested by members of the cast.

The opening feature of the program was an overture, "The Real Stuff," rendered by the Marquette orchestra, and composed expressly for the play by Mr. W. J. Ryan. The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. J. B. Baud, also played during the intermissions. Mr. Ryan directed the play. The proceeds will be employed to finance the various school activities.

Sacred Heart Novitiate

Year Ends for Circle

On the second Sunday in May, the Father John Roothaan Circle held its final meeting of a very successful year. The Circle, whose object it is to promote a better knowledge of the devotion to the Sacred Heart, was begun about 18 months ago and placed under the patronage of Father Roothaan, who was himself such an ardent apostle of the devotion.

At each of the monthly meetings a book dealing with some aspect of the devotion was reported upon, an instruction given upon such topics as the Holy Hour, the Apostleship of Prayer, the Promises of the Sacred Heart, etc., and a sermonette delivered upon the Hidden Heart, the Zealous Heart, the Kindly Heart, the Suffering Heart and kindred titles. The warm enthusiasm with which the juniors have entered upon this work of learning and loving the devotion to the Sacred Heart augurs well for their zeal in propagating it.

Death Calls Parents

Mr. John Curran received a sad blow in the loss of his father, Mr. Thomas Curran, who died in San Francisco on May 12.

Brother William Cahill was called to Santa Barbara late in April to the bedside of his dying mother. She passed away peacefully shortly after his arrival.

Great Expectations

The reports received thus far point to a good crowd of novices for the coming year. It is reasonably hoped that the number will come to 35, and may even exceed that.

Father Duce writes from Belgium that he expects to bring home with him a novice from Turnhout, Robert Dachy by name.

Oliver J. Goulet of Los Angeles entered as a postulant for the Brotherhood in April.

Gonzaga University Mission Proves Success

The mission for the Italians of Spokane held recently in St. Aloysius Church achieved great success both in attendance and in number of converts. The exercises conducted for a week were brought to a close by a special service for children, including a processional feature in the afternoon, while another for the parish as a whole was held in the evening. The children's service drew about one thousand youngsters from the various Italian parishes of the city. The mission was conducted by Father Carmalo Tranchese of New Orleans, a member of the Southern province. The exercises drew an average attendance of about four hundred.

New Courses Next Year

To further increase its academic field, Gonzaga will offer, next fall, several new courses among which will be that of a Master's degree of Arts. This new field will offer complete courses in Philosophy, English, History and French and will be open only to those holding a Bachelor's degree and having at least two years of scholastic philosophy.

High School Student Wins

Robert Corkery, a member of the high school, has added another victory to his steadily increasing list. Chosen from a number of excellent speakers as the best eastern Washington had to offer, Corkery gained new laurels by carrying off the state championship in Seattle. The contest sponsored by the Seattle Times was held in the auditorium of the Broadway high school before a crowd of about 1200. As a result of his victory Corkery received the prize of $200 presented to him in a new billfold along with his title. He also won the right to participate in the Pacific Coast finals held at Los Angeles on May 10, where he was awarded second place.

Mount St. Michael's Orders Conferred

At 4 p. m. on May 16, Rt. Rev. Charles D. White, Bishop of Spokane, conferred the first of the Minor Orders on the Third Year philosophers. The succeeding Orders were conferred before the community Mass. On May 17, Ostiarius and Lector; on May 21, Acolyte and Exorcist.

Building Grows

With the arrival and placement of numerous steel girders, work on the new wing is now proceeding skyward with the "musical" noise of the riveting mingling with the now familiar rumble of the powerful trucks.

To Welcome Men Again

Father Patrick J. O'Reilly has been appointed to give the Laymen's retreats this year. They will be held June 27-30 and July 11-14.

As in former years efforts have been made to secure capacity attendance. Former retreatants are active and earnest in this work of recruiting and it is expected that many men will come to the Mount for the three days.

Santa Clara

Father Henry Gives Talk

Father James Henry, head of the University of Santa Clara Seismograph station, gave a talk on "Seismology and Its Application to Engineering" before the Engineering Society of San Jose on April 17 at the monthly banquet of the body in San Jose.

Engineers Make Inspection Trip

About forty engineers of the sophomore and freshman classes of the University of Santa Clara, accompanied by Professor W. D. Lotz, made an inspection trip to the Granite Construction Company's plant at Watsonville on April 16.

Gives History of Bell

Friends of the University of Santa Clara who have been keeping in touch with events of note pertinent to the local institution, will recall the fact that, a few months ago, word was received from the King of Spain to the effect that he would be the donor of a beautiful bell that will hang in the tower of the new Mission Church.

This brings to mind a similar gift of another King of Spain over 130 years ago. In the "Catholic World" for April, 1929, Miss Delphia Phillips gave the history of the first bell.

Brother McSweeney

Many Years in Alaska

On March 6, Brother Jeremiah McSweeney died at Holy Cross, Alaska, where for fourteen of his seventeen years in the Society he had labored among the Eskimos and Indians.

A faithful and industrious worker, he had charge of the farm, getting in the hay in the summer, and raising the stock. For some time, too, he had charge of the boys as their prefect.

Begins to Fail

Rev. Father Delon, superior of the Mission, gives an account of the last illness of Brother McSweeney. He writes from Fairbanks, March 13.

"The summer of 1928 had scarcely passed when Brother McSweeney began to say that he thought his old trouble was returning. However, he seemed so perfectly natural in all his looks and ways that no one took alarm.

"I, myself, thought his trouble more mental than physical and due to a tendency to discouragement. Nevertheless, I offered him an airplane trip to Fairbanks where he would have been under the care of the Sisters; but he would not hear of leaving Holy Cross. He preferred, as he said, to leave his bones up on the hillside here rather than go away, put the Mission to heavy expense, and then 'have to die anyhow.'

"No attention would have been paid to his reasons however, had there been, on the part of anyone else but himself, an apprehension that he was weakening.

"One of the two Sister-nurses here, diagnosed his case as cancer of the stomach. I asked her whether hospital treatment would relieve the Brother, but she replied that cases as advanced as she judged his to be, were considered hopeless by doctors

"Suddenly, less than a month ago, the Brother's heart action began to speed up and soon climbed to 120. Along with that, his breathing became greatly impeded, so much so that the slightest exertion would put him out of breath.

"Hopeless as the case now appeared, I again offered to have him taken by airplane to Fairbanks. But he rejected the offer emphatically.

"He remained on his feet till the last days of February. Then on the evening of March 2, at his request, I gave him Extreme Unction. The next morning's Communion was given him as Viaticum. To receive better care, he was then removed to the Sister's infirmary. Brother Horan stayed up with him at night, while during the day he was assisted by Father Concannon or a Brother or Sister. On Monday evening, fearing that the end was close, I decided to remain with him. At midnight I brought him Holy Communion once more. He received Our Lord with more than ordinary devotion. At about half past twelve, not seeing any change in him, I asked him if he thought I might leave him, and he replied with earnest animation, that by all means, I should not stay up any longer but go and take a little rest. I took his advice, but I shall always regret having done so.

"I had expected that, should there be any signs of a change for the worse I should be called at once. But somehow, either because no one realized the danger, or through a mistaken appreciation of the fitness of things, I was not notified when the agony began. It lasted but two or three minutes, I am told . . .

"Of course, I have no fear that the Brother had any need of the priest. He was so perfectly well resigned, yea even glad that he was going to die . . . As I was leaving him, at his urgent request, I reminded him that he was then a living tabernacle, with Our Divine Lord dwelling within him. He smiled graciously at these words, and showed that he was perfectly conscious of the Divine Presence.

"He died at 2.10 a. m., Tuesday morning, March 5."

News Jottings From Other Provinces

Canada

The opening of the Shrine of the Canadian Martyrs will take place on June 23, with Father Lally in charge for the summer. There are indications that there will be an appreciable increase of pilgrims this year. The pilgrimages from Montreal will have two trains of sleepers this year, as against one of last year. Father Paquin, who has been surveying the grounds, has located the sites of several Indian villages and the Christian Indian burying ground about one and a half miles from the Shrine. It is possibly the site of the village of St. Louis.

New Orleans

Regarding the notice that appeared recently in this column about the ordination of twin brothers at Canisius College, Buffalo, and the claim that this is the first case of the kind in America, the New Orleans Province News Letter writes as follows: "... it is another instance of history repeating itself. For in June 1894, Fathers Daniel and Philip Murphy, of the New Orleans Province, were ordained at Woodstock by Cardinal Gibbons. The first time during the ceremonies that they approached side by side and knelt before the cardinal, he gazed at one and then at the other, amazed, (for the twins were so much alike that even old friends could hardly tell them apart) and turning to Father Sabetti, who was directing the ceremonies, asked in an undertone, "Sunt fratres, nonne?" "Gemini quidem," answered Father Sabetti, with a smile. And after the services the Cardinal wanted by all means to meet the twins. Father Philip died some time ago in New Orleans, during a 'flu' epidemic, but Father Daniel Murphy is at present in Spring Hill."

Father J. P. Moore, April 22, New Orleans, La. (N. O.)

Father Joseph Gerlach, April 30, Grand Coteau, La. (N. O.)

The next number will appear September 1.
